

Audio:

NOAH: Come on- lets grab some pizza.

ELLA: Hang on, wait for Jay.

SOUND EFFECTS: Sound of someone walking, a car horn and light screech of brakes

JAY: Wow, that was scary. [panting, a little out of breath]

NOAH: Dude your lucky. That was such a dumb move. What were you doing on your phone?

JAY: Looking at a funny picture.

ELLA: You didn't see what happening around, 'cause your face was in your phone.

NOAH: Dude, put your phone away when crossing a street. That funny picture will still be there later.

JAY: I was in a crosswalk. Don't drivers have to stop when you are in a crosswalk? [said with a little disdain]

ELLA: Yes, they do. But before you cross you gotta make sure they see you and are slowing down.

JAY: Alright, from now on I'm putting my phone away when I'm on the street.

NOAH: And keep your earbuds off too.

ELLA: Good! Now let's grab lunch.

Announcer: That may be a smart phone in your hand, but it's not so smart to zone-out and not be able to see and hear what's happening around you. When walking around town keep at least one ear bud out that way you can pay attention to your environment. We all got phones, but be responsible and pay attention to your surroundings for your own safety. Brought to you by Santa Rosa Street Smarts and the Sonoma County Safe Streets Coalition.
