
New Sonoma County Government Center

The County of Sonoma provides critical services to residents, businesses, and visitors. Twenty-six departments safeguard our health and safety, manage our jails, parks, hospitals, transportation systems, and sanitation. We care for families, the homeless, the vulnerable, agriculture and animals from pets to livestock, our environment and more.

Like many post-WWII-era systems and structures, our facilities have far outlived their useful lives and impede our work and effectiveness. We must build a place to meet the rapidly evolving needs of our community.

Improve services with modern, safe facilities

The County is facing challenges with its current facilities:

170+ aging buildings we have outgrown - almost $10M/yr to rent more space

In 2018, the County Government Center's deferred maintenance backlog was $258M - a cost that goes up every year.

Many County Government Buildings are not up to modern standards for accessibility, efficiency, and seismic safety.

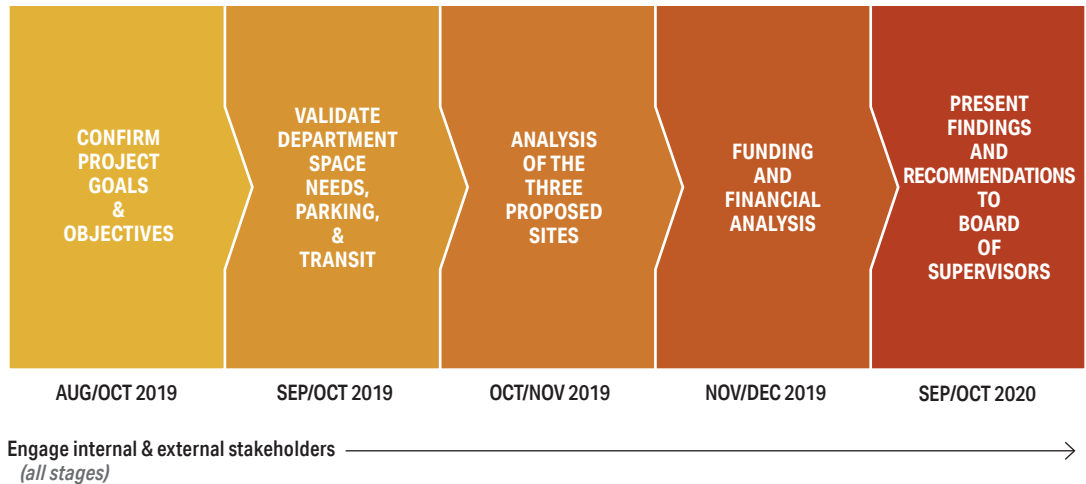

Recognizing this need, the Board of Supervisors has asked for a technical evaluation of the most efficient locations and best approach.

What's next?

The County is working with a team of technical experts to study the feasibility of sites and scope for a new County Government Center.
